

ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY FOURTH
COMMENCEMENT

MAY 12, 2025

BROOKINGS HALL stands as the symbolic heart of Washington University, its archway serving as a doorway between the university and the St. Louis community. Constructed of red Missouri granite in the Collegiate Gothic style, “University Hall,” as it was first called, was built between 1900 and 1902 and was the administrative center for the 1904 World’s Fair.

SUSTAINABILITY

Washington University provides waste stations and recycling tents at all receptions to work toward a zero waste experience.

FRANCIS OLYMPIC FIELD is named for alumnus and statesman David R. Francis. It was constructed in 1902 and first used in 1904 for the third Olympic Games, held in St. Louis. The ornamental wrought-iron gate on the east end of the field was built after the World's Fair to commemorate the 1904 Olympics, and the field is a registered historic landmark. In 2018, the sculpture "Spectacular," featuring the five interlaced Olympic rings, was installed near Francis Olympic Field, celebrating St. Louis' Olympic legacy.

THE COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY

Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern of degree granting developed at the University of Paris, which was founded about 1100. In the early days of the University of Paris, the discipline of the students—and indeed their education—fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who was responsible for local educational matters. While the bishop claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting, the university’s teaching masters disagreed, believing that they were the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. As such, they demanded the right to grant degrees.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise between the bishop and the teaching masters. By 1200, the masters were judging the merits of students and then recommending them to the bishop, who conferred degrees. Today’s ceremony is the successor to this medieval compromise. The deans present the qualified candidates to the chancellor. Acting upon the recommendation of the faculty, the chancellor, as executive officer of the Board of Trustees, formally confers the appropriate degrees.

ACADEMIC DRESS

The academic dress worn by faculty and degree candidates originates in the clerical robes of students and teachers at the earliest medieval universities. In 1895, American colleges and universities adopted a code of academic dress that included regulating the cut and style of the gowns and prescribing colors to represent the different fields of learning. The code, which has since been updated and revised, is still in use at colleges and universities throughout the United States. The design of caps and gowns is determined by the following:

Level of degree earned: This is reflected in the design of the gown. The bachelor’s degree gown has pointed sleeves, the master’s degree gown has oblong sleeves, and doctoral degree gown has bell-shaped sleeves with three bars of velvet. All can be worn open or closed.

Institution granting the degree: The backs of the hoods for advanced degrees are lined with silk showing the colors of the institution granting the degree or the institution with which the wearer is connected. Washington University’s hood is lined with red and green, the school’s official colors. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, which is carried forward around the throat, indicates the division of the university:

Arts & Sciences (bachelor’s and master’s degrees) – white
Arts & Sciences (PhD) – dark-blue
Architecture – blue-violet
Art – brown
Business – silver-beige
Engineering – orange
Law – purple
Medicine – green
Public Health – salmon pink
Social Policy – peacock
Social Work – citron
Continuing & Professional Studies – golden-yellow
Honorary degrees awarded by the Board of Trustees – gold

BANNERS

In addition to the coloring present in the academic dress, the division also is represented on the Commencement banners. These banners are carried by a student marshal at the head of the procession for their division. The side sections of the banners are red and green, the university’s colors, and the center section, which bears the seal of the university, is the color of the academic division.

THE UNIVERSITY SEAL

Holmes Smith, professor of drawing and history of art, developed the university seal (on the cover) in 1896. The original version, approved by the Board of Trustees in March 1897, incorporated elements of the coat of arms of George Washington, for whom the university is named, and fleur-de-lis, the symbol of King Louis IX, the patron and namesake of St. Louis. The current seal was created in 2000 and includes these same elements, as well as the university motto, “per veritatem vis” or strength through truth, which was adopted in 1915.

HONORARY GRAND MARSHAL

Stuart I. Greenbaum

During his tenure as dean of Washington University's Olin Business School—from 1995 to 2005—Stuart I. Greenbaum, the Bank of America Professor Emeritus of Managerial Leadership, led a remarkable transformation of the school that included growing both curriculum offerings and faculty; establishing the Charles F. Knight Executive Education Center to support executive education and lifelong learning; and creating a partnership with Fudan University in Shanghai, China, that is still in place today.

A native New Yorker, Greenbaum was born in Manhattan and grew up in Queens. He earned a bachelor's degree in economics from New York University. After serving in the Army, he continued his education at Johns Hopkins University where he earned a doctorate in economics. It was there, too, that he met his future wife, Margaret Elaine Wache, who was a fellow student in the doctoral program.

Greenbaum began his career at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. In 1964, he received his first academic job offer—to become assistant professor of economics at Washington University. Instead of accepting that offer, he returned to the Federal Reserve followed by employment at the Comptroller of the Currency, a division of the U.S. Department of the Treasury in Washington, D.C.

From Washington, Greenbaum went to the University of Kentucky where he became chairman of its Department of Economics. In 1976, he transferred to the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University where he was on faculty for 20 years. He served as the school's associate dean for academic affairs for four of those years.

In 1995, Greenbaum accepted an offer to lead the Olin Business School. He quickly developed a reputation as a visionary leader, brilliant teacher and consummate learner and listener. He set lofty goals for the school to be ranked among the best in the country and laid the groundwork to achieve those goals—a legacy that continues today.

Greenbaum shifted the school's culture to be more responsive to students' needs. In graduate and undergraduate programs, he made major curricular advances that sparked the development of more than 40 new courses of study and allowed students to customize their programs. He collaborated with McKelvey School of Engineering and the School of Medicine to launch two executive master's degree programs in manufacturing and health services management and implemented flexible schedules for adult learners.

With hands-on courses in entrepreneurship, global management and investments and courses featuring consulting with public schools, private companies and nonprofit organizations, Greenbaum brought experiential learning to the forefront at Olin. The Hatchery—a now highly popular class in which student entrepreneurs work in teams to create viable business plans—is one such class that was developed to meet this experiential learning need.

Under his leadership, Olin flourished: Applications to the full-time Master of Business Administration and the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration programs reached records for the time, as did giving to the school. Thanks to generous support from alumni and the community, the school had the resources to add 14 new endowed professorial chairs, build the $50 million 135,000-square-foot Knight Center, and establish the Skandalaris Center for Entrepreneurial Studies. Over the last 20 years, more than 1,000 student startups at various stages have worked with the interdisciplinary center.

Greenbaum authored two books on banking and more than 80 articles in professional and scholarly journals. He also was a founding editor of the Journal of Financial Intermediation, which is still published today, and served on the editorial boards of 10 other academic journals.

Over the years, Greenbaum served on the boards of 17 public companies. He also served on the Dean's Advisory Council of the Graduate Management Admission Council and the board of the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, the primary accrediting agency for business schools. Community service is a shared passion of Greenbaum and his wife, Elaine Greenbaum, PhD, who earned a bachelor's degree from WashU in 1960. They received the Dean's Medal for exceptional dedication and service to Olin in 2006. The honor recognized both Stuart Greenbaum's numerous accomplishments as dean, as well as Elaine's contributions to the school and her relationship with Olin students, faculty and alumni that helped foster a culture of caring.

Outside of Olin, Greenbaum served on the boards of numerous nonprofits including St. Louis Children's Hospital, Provident Behavioral Health Services and Covenant Place, a senior living facility for the less affluent. He eventually served as board chair of Provident, dedicating countless hours to ensure it had the necessary resources to care for those in need in the St. Louis community.

The Greenbaums live in St. Louis and have two adult children, Nathan and Regina.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Simone Biles

Doctor of Humane Letters

The most decorated gymnast in history with 41 medals across World Championships and the Olympic Games, Simone Biles holds the most World Championship medals (30, including 23 gold medals) in gymnastics history. A three-time Olympian, her 11 Olympic medals, including seven gold, are the most by a U.S. gymnast.

A three-time Laureus World Sportswoman of the Year and an Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year, she has earned the rare distinction of having five skills named in her honor –The Biles– in the beam, floor and vault disciplines.

Biles’ extraordinary accomplishments have received widespread recognition, including the youngest recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom, Time’s “100 Most Influential People,” Forbes’

“30 Under 30,” Ebony Power 100, People’s “Women Changing the World,” USA Today’s “100 Women of the Century” and CNN Heroes, among others.

Her autobiography, Courage to Soar, was a New York Times bestseller and was developed into an award-winning TV special on Lifetime, while her Snap Originals series, Daring Simone Biles, received an NAACP Image Award.

An ambassador for Friends of the Children, Biles uses her platform to help advocate for change and to support initiatives that provide education and assistance for children and young adults connected to adoption, foster care and overall wellness.

HONORARY DEGREE

Jenifer Lewis

Doctor of Fine Arts

Jenifer Lewis, dubbed “the mother of Black Hollywood,” is an acclaimed actress, author, singer and activist whose dynamic presence has made her one of the most recognizable and beloved figures in entertainment. With a career spanning over four decades, Lewis has appeared in more than 400 television episodes, 68 movies, 143 animated projects and four Broadway productions, earning her a reputation as both a comedic powerhouse and a dramatic force to be reckoned with.

Born in Kinloch, Missouri, a suburb of St. Louis, Lewis attended Webster University. She began her career in Broadway musicals before appearing in the films Beaches, Sister Act, What’s Love Got to Do With It, Poetic Justice, The Preacher’s Wife, The Cookout and more.

Her unmistakable voice also made her a natural in animation. She provided the voice for Mama Odie in Disney’s animated feature The Princess and the Frog, endearing herself to a new generation, and she voiced the character Flo in Pixar’s Cars series.

On television, she starred in the Lifetime medical drama Strong Medicine from 2000 to 2006. She also had recurring roles on sitcoms A Different World, The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air and Girlfriends.

In 2014, Lewis began starring as Ruby Johnson in the ABC comedy series Black-ish, a role that garnered her two Critics’ Choice Television Award nominations and widespread critical acclaim.

Most recently she starred as Patricia in the Showtime series I Love That For You.

In 2022, Lewis was honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. In 2024, she was honored with a star on the St. Louis Walk of Fame.

A noted singer, Lewis has performed in more than 200 concerts worldwide, including sold-out audiences at Lincoln Center and Carnegie Hall.

Her accomplishments as an entertainer and community activist have been recognized with an honorary doctorate from her alma mater, Webster University, and the Career Achievement Award from The American Black Film Festival. The King Center for Non-Violent Social Change awarded Lewis with the Yolanda D. King Higher Ground Award.

In addition to her onscreen success, Lewis is also a New York Times best-selling author. In her memoirs, The Mother of Black Hollywood and Walking in My Joy, she shares her personal journey with bipolar disorder, becoming a powerful voice for mental health awareness and self-empowerment.

Lewis is a vocal advocate for mental health, racial justice, LGBTQ+ rights and women’s empowerment. She frequently uses her platform to speak truth to power, inspire resilience and encourage others to live boldly and authentically.

HONORARY DEGREE

Rodger Riney

Doctor of Humanities

Paula Riney

Doctor of Humanities

Business visionary Rodger Riney, along with his wife, Paula, have for decades uplifted the St. Louis community through their philanthropic endeavors. Rodger Riney graduated from Kirkwood High School in 1963. Paula Riney was also a Kirkwood alum, but did not transfer there until after Rodger's graduation. It was not until 16 years later that they met and married; they both regret that their time in high school didn't overlap and they had to wait so long to meet. Rodger attended Oklahoma State University for three years before transferring to the University of Missouri-Columbia.

During his last three years at Mizzou, Rodger spent a few vacations interning at Edward D. Jones & Co. and found out how much he loved the stock brokerage business. When he graduated with a BA in civil engineering degree and an MBA in 1969, he went to work at Jones as a management trainee and eventually as a partner for a few years. Next, he decided that he wanted to become part of a new industry called discount brokerage, so in 1980 he started his own firm in Phoenix, naming it Scottsdale Securities. By the 1990s the business had moved predominantly online, and its name changed to Scottrade, Inc. But it stuck to its core business model of low commissions, no investment advice, branch offices to help clients, and award-winning customer service. The firm earned many accolades along the way, but he is most proud of being included six times on Fortune magazine's 100 Best Companies to Work For and winning eleven JD Power awards for Best Discount Brokerage. The firm would eventually open 500 branch offices in 48 states. But in 2015 Rodger disclosed that he had received a diagnosis of multiple myeloma, for which there was no known cure. This led to his 2016 decision to sell Scottrade to TD Ameritrade.

Both Rodger and Paula Riney had parents who suffered from neurodegenerative diseases. This led to their early philanthropy of making gifts to the Washington University School of Medicine to support research into Parkinson's and Alzheimer's disease. After the sale of Scottrade, the couple established the Paula and Rodger Riney Foundation to support scientific research leading to a better understanding and possible cure for multiple myeloma and related cancers, and to support general philanthropy primarily in metropolitan St. Louis. Rodger now serves on the WashU School of Medicine's National Council. Through their foundation the couple has funded over 150 unique research projects at such institutions as Emory University, the University of Missouri, the University of Arkansas, the Ohio State University, the Mayo Clinic, the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, and the Multiple Myeloma Research Foundation. To give individual doctors funding to investigate specific drugs, the Rineys set up a blood-cancer research initiative, which awards funds annually. To date, over 100 researchers have been funded using this initiative, administered by the Myeloma Research Society.

Together, the Rineys and their foundation have supported a wide range of civic and charitable organizations across the St. Louis region. These include, among many others, Arch to Park, Variety, BioSTL, Operation Food Search, 100 Neediest Cases, Assistance League St. Louis, the Ronald McDonald House, Central Institute for the Deaf, the United Way of Greater St. Louis, the Foundation for Barnes-Jewish Hospital, the Animal Protective Association, the St. Louis chapter of the Alzheimer's Association, and the Foster and Adoptive Care Coalition.

The Rineys live in St. Louis. They have three grown children—Pamela Riney Walkenbach, Richard P. Riney, and Michael W. Riney (BSBA '08)—and six grandchildren.

HONORARY DEGREE

Rochelle Walensky
Doctor of Science

Rochelle Walensky, MD, an infectious disease specialist and renowned authority on HIV/AIDS, served as the director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention from 2021 to 2023. During that time, she became a leader in the United States and around the world in the global response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

When Walensky was appointed to be the 19th director of the CDC, she brought decades of expertise in infectious diseases to the organization, particularly related to HIV/AIDS. Prior to her tenure at the CDC, Walensky was a professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School and chief of the Division of Infectious Diseases at Massachusetts General Hospital, and served as a front-line clinician during the initial outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic. She developed a significant public profile as an advocate for effective action to combat the spread of the disease, based on the latest and best understanding of the virus and how it worked.

Walensky began her tenure as the head of the CDC when the first mass vaccinations for COVID-19 were being rolled out across the country. The CDC was in a position where they needed to share accurate information about the vaccines, while simultaneously learning about how effective they were. Walensky and the agency faced the unprecedented challenge of communicating information collated from disparate hospital health care systems and health departments from all 50 states.

To improve the CDC's ability to collect, compile and communicate information quickly to scientists, health authorities and the general public, Walensky launched a major reform of the agency called CDC Moving Forward. The program sought to improve its internal processes and systems, including the direction and management of its scientific programs and partnerships, data collection and public outreach. The goal of the two-year modernization program was to increase the speed and clarity with which the CDC could respond to, and communicate to the public about, disease outbreaks such as COVID-19, as well as other novel diseases.

Walensky earned a bachelor of arts in chemistry with a concentration in biochemistry from Washington University's College of Arts & Sciences in 1991. She received her medical degree in 1995 from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and completed her residency in internal medicine in 1998 at the Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Her medical training coincided with the peak years of deaths from AIDS in the United States, which provided the context for her subsequent fellowship in infectious diseases at Massachusetts General/Brigham and Women's Hospital and a master's of public health at the Harvard School of Public Health, both completed in 2001. She joined the faculty of Harvard Medical School in 2001 and has published more than 350 articles on infectious diseases, with a particular focus on HIV/AIDS policy, including cost-effective strategies for HIV screening, treatment and prevention.

Much of Walensky's work informed policy in the United States that increased and broadened funding for HIV-related research and treatment geared especially toward earlier treatment and more aggressive screening, particularly for those who have limited access to health care. Her work informed the President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) that was a signature foreign aid policy initiative of the George W. Bush presidency.

Walensky's counsel has been sought internationally by the World Health Organization and UNAIDS, and domestically by the Department of Human and Health Services HIV Guidelines Committee and the National Institutes of Health Office of AIDS Research. She is a member of the American Academy of Physicians, National Academy of Medicine and the Council on Foreign Relations. She serves on the board of trustees at the Doris Duke Foundation and the Carter Center and is currently the Bayer Fellow in Health and Biotech at the American Academy in Berlin.

Walensky is married to Loren Walensky, MD, PhD, a physician-scientist and pediatric oncologist at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute/Boston Children's Hospital. Together they have three sons.

HONORARY DEGREE

Jess B. Yawitz
Doctor of Business

Three-time alumnus Jess Yawitz is a former distinguished member of WashU's faculty, an entrepreneur, business leader and philanthropist whose impact on the region has been described as "transformational." Along with his wife, Alice Yawitz, MBA '75, he has been a stalwart supporter of St. Louis institutions to the benefit of the region and its people. Through the Yawitz Family Foundation, they have focused on increasing access to quality education for children from under-privileged backgrounds and on creating conditions for economic growth through small business development. Additionally, during the early days of the COVID-19 pandemic, Jess and Alice Yawitz initiated the Gateway Resilience Fund, which provided direct relief to St. Louis families and businesses to help bridge the gap until other resources became available.

Upon completing a PhD in Economics, Jess Yawitz joined WashU's Olin Business School where he served for 14 years on the finance faculty. He was known as a builder of bridges who nurtured strong and productive relationships between the school, faculty and business. In creating and directing Olin's Institute of Banking and Financial Markets, Yawitz used his research and his contacts in finance to contribute to the growing reputation of Olin. His pioneering research on fixed income investing and interest-rate risk management laid the foundation for his career in business. In the words of Bob Virgil, Olin's Dean Emeritus, "Jess supported everything we were trying to do to advance the school. He was a masterful teacher. Many of our MBAs sought careers in financial institutions, and through his Institute of Banking and Financial Markets he opened opportunity from the Midwest to Wall Street. His research with colleague Bill Marshall brought attention to us from leading scholars and provided the theoretical foundation for the sterling company he built. Without Jess, Olin would not have advanced nearly as far as it has. He is one in a million." In 1983, Yawitz was appointed to the school's first endowed professorship, the John E. Simon Professor of Finance.

In 1985, Yawitz headed to Wall Street to serve as vice president and director of the Financial Strategies Group in the Fixed Income Division at Goldman Sachs. He returned to St. Louis a few years later to continue with Goldman Sachs Asset Management as its first chief investment officer. Here he became acquainted with the Milwaukee firm National Investment Services of America, Inc. (NISA). In 1994, Yawitz and Bill Marshall, fellow Olin finance faculty member and research collaborator, made the decision to acquire and reorganize NISA. Over time, they transformed the firm into a powerhouse focused on the active management of fixed-income assets and derivative overlay strategies for institutional clients. Today NISA manages more than $400 billion in assets.

Yawitz retired as chairman and CEO of NISA in 2021 after a thoughtful multi-year transition of the firm's management and ownership.

Yawitz has never wavered in his commitment to WashU, and the family's quiet philanthropy has touched many corners of the university. It was Yawitz who had the idea to crowdfund the Geraldine J. and Robert L. Virgil Professorship in Accounting and Management, which he also helped endow. He established the John Schael Scholarship to honor WashU's longtime director of Athletics. Jess and Alice Yawitz also endowed the Dr. Phillip and Arleen Korenblat Professorship at WashU Medicine, in recognition of their friend and physician. They also provided seed funding for WashU's College Prep Program, which helps first-generation students from the St. Louis region prepare for college applications and college life. The family provides generous and continuing support for Athletics, Olin Business School, the Department of Economics, the Spirit of WashU Scholarship and WashU Medicine.

In 2006, Yawitz was inducted as the only wrestler in the WashU Athletics Hall of Fame. He has received a variety of other notable WashU awards, including the Olin Distinguished Faculty Award, a Founders Day Distinguished Alumni Award and the Gephardt Institute's Gerry & Bob Virgil Ethic of Service Award.

POLICIES

Bag policy: Graduates may not bring any bags of any type onto Francis Olympic Field, or into the school ceremonies. Guests are strongly encouraged not to bring bags. The only exceptions are clear plastic bags, not to exceed 14" x 14" x 4"; small clutch-type wallets or purses not to exceed 4" x 6"; diaper bags, which are allowed for those with small children, and will be inspected; as well as medically necessary equipment which will also be inspected.

Prohibited Items: To ensure the safety and comfort of graduates and their invited guests, the university has developed a list of items prohibited from its ceremonies and events. They are subject to immediate confiscation and include air horns and other artificial noisemakers; animals (except assistance animals); banners or signs larger than 2' x 3'; all poles; food and drink (except water); firearms and weapons; laser lights; balloons, glitter and confetti; unmanned aircraft or drones; explosives or fireworks.

Tobacco-Free Policy: In an effort to provide a healthy, comfortable and productive work and learning environment for students, faculty and staff, all WashU campuses are entirely smoke and tobacco free. Under the policy, smoking and the use of all other tobacco products is prohibited on the entire campus. Smoking also is prohibited inside vehicles parked in campus parking lots. This policy applies to all university community members, including visitors and those attending athletic and alumni events.

LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Washington University occupies the ancestral, traditional, and contemporary lands of the Osage Nation, Missouriia, Illinois Confederacy and many other tribes as the custodians of the land where we reside, occupy and call home. We recognize their sovereignty was never ceded after unjust removal and encourage your own research on tribal removal, tribal sovereignty and the history of the land you reside.
